Saavedra and Jacoma win the Sho Clothes Jog at the 2007 PhelpsSports.com Palm Beach Dressage Derby

Wellington, FL- Sho Clothes, Wellington's dressage boutique sponsored the jog presentation at the PhelpsSports.com Palm Beach Derby held last weekend. Sho Clothes judges, John Zopatti and Karen McKean had a difficult job, as the jog ran for several hours and all off the participants seemed to put extra effort into their turnout. In the end the prevailing winners were Francisco Saavedra for the men's turnout and Susan Jacoma for the ladies turnout.

Saavedra and Jacoma each won a $100 gift certificate to Sho Clothes for the win. Saavedra's crisp military turnout and immaculately groomed mount thoroughly impressed the judges. Jacoma won the ladies turnout with an equally well-groomed mount and a stylish outfit that judges deemed "both fashionable and suitable" for the jog.

Later in the weekend, Jacoma proved that pretty is as pretty does, when she rode Leslie Malone's, 9-year old Hanoverian, Harmony's Weissmuller to a decisive win in the Intermediate-I class with a score of 71.25%

Sho Clothes, which is co-owned by former dressage rider/artist, Michelle Hundt and Pan Am Gold Medalist, Betsy Rebar Sell, has been serving the dressage community since 2001. Sho Clothes has been especially supportive to the Palm Beach Derby. In fact along with sponsoring the jog, Michelle Hundt also provided the cover artwork for the 2007 prize program.
