Shannon Dueck Wins Sho Clothes Signature Whip Second Year In A Row

Wellington, FL - Shannon Dueck and S Infinity won the open Prix St Georges class last weekend at the Gold Coast Dressage Association (GCDA) Fall Fling Show, held at the Jim Brandon Equestrian Center in Wellington. The duo also won the Sho Clothes Signature Whip for the second year in a row.

Dueck and S Infinity, who is owned by Cetty Weiss, earned a score of 69.5% to capture the high score and take home the engraved silver-topped Sho Clothes whip. "I am thrilled about winning the award again and I am happy that Sho Clothes continues to sponsor the Prix St Georges level," Dueck said.

Sho Clothes is a clothing destination for dressage riders. They are supportive of local dressage riders and shows, and their mobile boutique is a welcome fixture at major dressage shows in Southern Florida.

The Sho Clothes Signature Whip is another way that Sho Clothes supports the dressage community, a fact that pleases winner Dueck. Following her win she talked about winning the whip two years in a row on the same horse.

"S Infinity is only seven-years-old but he is getting more and more consistent in his collection and I was really happy he pulled off the Prix St Georges," Dueck said. "He's a spectacular mover and his highlight is his extended trot."

In addition to providing the Signature Whip for the GCDA show, Sho Clothes, owned by Michele Hundt and Betsy Rebar Sell, also offers a monthly "Shop Talk" at their showroom. Shop Talk gives local equestrians the opportunity to converse and question top professionals in the equine industry. The speaker for the upcoming December 9th Shop Talk will be Jim Welsh of Elite Horse Transport who will discuss everything you ever wanted to know about shipping. The seminars are free and the public is welcome. For more information visit their website at www.shoclothes.com.
